Master Software Subscription Agreement

13 June 2018

RPMGlobal Holdings Limited (ASX: RUL) [RPM] has entered into a master software subscription license and services agreement with Proquire, an Accenture affiliate, to enable RPM to provide its software products to mutually agreed clients as part of the Accenture Connected Mine Suite on a subscription basis. There is no immediate subscription revenue attached to execution of the master agreement.

Commenting on the agreement, RPM's CEO and Managing Director Richard Mathews said "RPM is pleased to conclude this agreement with a true recognised global leader in digital transformation. RPM's products will now be made available to the mining industry through the Accenture Connected Mine offering. Working together, Accenture and RPM can bring mine engineering insight together with operational acumen into one central system for analysis and decision making."

Mr Mathew's concluded by saying, "This relationship also includes our XECUTE product which will enable mine planning engineers and first line supervisors who are executing the mines operational plans to monitor real time data on the operating performance within the mine. This insight will facilitate the ability for end users to predict end of period outcomes so they can adjust their plans mid shift if needed. If a change is warranted the system will distribute the new plan to the team in the mine in real time. The system will also monitor activity in the mine and will alert the user to potential safety risks.
